

Tasty Truths – Totally Serious Terms of Service

Last Updated: When the pasta stopped boiling over

Welcome to Tasty Truths, the sacred digital kitchen where recipes are shared, opinions are spicy, and burnt toast is still valid cuisine.

By using this website, you agree to the following terms, rules, vibes, and general culinary etiquette.

If you do not agree... you may still browse, but we will be mildly disappointed.

1. Acceptance of the Terms (a.k.a. The “You’re Here Now” Clause)

By accessing or using Tasty Truths, you confirm that:

- You like food (or at least tolerate it)
- You won’t start recipe wars in the comments
- You understand that pineapple on pizza debates may occur

If you cannot accept these conditions, we recommend a calming snack and a nap.

2. User Accounts (Your Digital Chef Identity)

When you create an account on Tasty Truths, you agree to:

- Provide accurate information (no, “Gordon Ramsay’s Cousin” is not valid unless proven)
- Keep your password secure
- Not impersonate other chefs, food critics, or your grandma’s secret recipe book

You are responsible for everything that happens on your account — even if your cat walks across the keyboard and posts a recipe.

3. User Content (Recipes, Bios, and Culinary Chaos)

By uploading recipes, profile pictures, bios, experiences, or food-related content, you confirm that:

- You actually have the right to share it
- You didn't steal it from a secret underground cookbook society
- Your recipe does not intentionally sabotage ovens, air fryers, or human happiness

You retain ownership of your content, but you grant Tasty Truths permission to:

- Display it
 - Share it
 - Make other users extremely hungry because of it
-

4. Acceptable Use (Don't Be That Chef)

You agree NOT to:

- Post harmful, offensive, or illegal content
- Upload recipes that are clearly cursed (e.g., "Microwaved Salad Supreme")
- Spam the platform with 400 variations of toast
- Start food fights in the comments section (digital or otherwise)

Violation of these rules may result in:

- Content removal
 - Account suspension
 - Being judged silently by the community
-

5. Profile Customization (Yes, You Can Be Fancy)

Users may:

- Upload profile pictures
- Add bios and cooking experiences
- Express their culinary personality

However, profile pictures must NOT:

- Be offensive
- Be stolen
- Be just a picture of plain white bread (we encourage creativity)

6. Friends, Followers, and Food Allies

If friend or profile features are enabled:

- Be respectful when interacting with other users
- Do not harass, stalk, or aggressively debate seasoning choices
- Remember: Different taste buds exist. It's science.

7. Recipe Accuracy Disclaimer (Important)

Tasty Truths does NOT guarantee:

- Your cookies will be perfectly chewy
- Your sauce won't reduce into oblivion
- That "a pinch of salt" will mean the same thing for everyone

Use recipes at your own risk and taste frequently like a responsible chef.

8. Intellectual Property (Respect the Kitchen)

All logos, designs, and site features belong to Tasty Truths unless otherwise stated.

You may NOT:

- Copy the entire website
- Rebrand it as "Flavor Facts"
- Claim our design tokens as your own (yes, we see you CI-103 devs)

9. Termination (The Kitchen Timeout Clause)

We reserve the right to suspend or terminate accounts if you:

- Repeatedly break the rules
- Troll the community
- Commit crimes against cuisine

Severe violations may result in permanent exile to the realm of bland food.

10. Limitation of Liability (If You Burn the Garlic...)

Tasty Truths is not responsible for:

- Burnt meals
- Oversalted soup
- Emotional damage caused by failed baking attempts
- Family arguments over recipe authenticity

Cook wisely.

11. Updates to These Terms

We may update these Terms at any time, especially:

- When new features are added
- When someone invents a questionable recipe trend
- When the dev team drinks too much coffee and gets ambitious

Continued use of the site means you accept the updated terms.

12. Final Rule (The Golden Kitchen Law)

Be kind.

Share recipes.

Respect other cooks.

And remember:

Every great dish starts with a little chaos and a lot of flavor.

By using Tasty Truths, you officially agree to cook, share, and vibe responsibly.